

Dublin Corporation Bill.

MEMORANDUM.

Section 23 of the Dublin Corporation Act, 1900, provides that on the 15th January 1901, the area by the Act added to the City of Dublin shall be detached from the County of Dublin and from the jurisdiction of the justices of the peace of that county.

Section 26 of the Act provides that from the same date the jurisdiction of the justices of the peace appointed for the City of Dublin shall extend throughout the added area.

Section 61 of the Act provides that at any time after the passing of the Act the Lord Lieutenant may, by Order, declare that the police district of Dublin Metropolis shall be extended so as to include so much of the added area as is not comprised within such police district.

Administrative difficulties have prevented the Lord Lieutenant from making an Order under section 61, and the like difficulties render it inconvenient that the above-mentioned provisions of sections 23 and 26 should come into operation until an Order under section 61 is made.

The Bill accordingly provides that until such an Order is made the jurisdiction of the justices of the County of Dublin shall continue throughout the added area, and the jurisdiction of no other justices shall extend throughout that area.
